

Activity 5: Is it good? Is it bad? Is it ugly? By - Nitya Patel

What was most surprising to you? - I found it surprising that everyone had the same thing to say about each question. It was pretty similar so it is good to know everyone is on the same page, about their thoughts about these consequences.

Which question provided the most consistent responses? - Technically all the questions had a consistent answer, because the questions were pretty straight forward and relatable.

Why do you think that was? - I think that because when we come to the topic about things destroying your nation, all people want their planet to be safe. So obviously all the responses would be pretty similar, but the only difference is how much thought you put into answering the questions.

What did you learn about this topic - I learned that E-waste has had a devastating effect on the environment and communities worldwide and will continue to have more and more devastating effects in the future so no further actions are done.

Now that you have this feedback, what do you think would be a good way to further educate the public on this topic? - The best way to further educate people is by showing that people actually care about such situations like this. We can possibly host events that educate people on this topic and its dangers that can be caused to our environment.
